At Weddington, we take pride in delivering high-quality, thoughtfully planned trips that foster curiosity, courage, and confidence in our children. Every trip is carefully risk-assessed, ensuring safety while embracing opportunities for growth and learning. Each educational visit is designed to inspire, directly linking to the theme or topic the children are exploring, encouraging them to persevere in their learning. Our trips reflect our commitment to aspiration, as children are guided to reach their full potential. For our Year 6 students, the phase-end PGL residential trip provides an exciting challenge, fostering respect, teamwork, and courage in new environments.

We are dedicated to truth and reflection, helping students learn not only from their experiences but also about themselves. Through mindfulness, we encourage them to be present and fully engaged, making the most of every learning opportunity. Every aspect of these experiences aligns with our core values, supporting the development of well-rounded individuals who are curious, courageous, and confident.

Why are trips important?

- Encourages Curiosity and Inquiry: Trips stimulate curiosity, encouraging children to ask questions, explore new environments, and discover how what they learn in the classroom connects to the real world.
- Promotes Independent Thinking: Out-of-classroom learning fosters independence, giving children the chance to think critically and solve problems in unfamiliar settings.
- Nurtures Resilience and Perseverance: Facing new challenges outside the classroom helps students develop resilience and the courage to persevere through unfamiliar or difficult tasks.
- Encourages Teamwork and Collaboration: Many educational trips require children to work together, fostering teamwork, cooperation, and a sense of shared responsibility.
- Enhances Cultural Awareness and Respect: Trips provide children with opportunities to experience different cultures, communities, and perspectives, promoting respect for diversity and global awareness.
- Builds Confidence in New Situations: Engaging with new environments boosts children's confidence as they step outside their comfort zone and succeed in new settings.
- Supports Emotional and Social Development: Educational visits often encourage reflection and mindfulness, helping children better understand their emotions and how to navigate social situations.
